

GUIDE TO ETHICAL EXCLUSIONS 2023

This document is intended for retail investors.

INTRODUCTION

Many of our clients have some form of ethical screening policy operating over their investment portfolio, and you may well be considering whether ethical exclusions are right for you.

This guide is designed to help you discuss and navigate the ethical options and decide the best course of action for your portfolio.

We have long experience of working with our clients to implement their ethical concerns in investment portfolios. We undertake research on each issue and consider the data provided by the companies themselves, together with data from third parties to inform us on the judgements that have to be made.

While we are able to operate on a bespoke basis, we have developed a set of parameters with clear definitions for each ethical issue to help clients implement their policies accurately.

Our approach is both quantitative and qualitative and considers the materiality of each exclusion based upon the percentage of revenues for the overall business involved in the production and distribution of ethically unacceptable products, such as gambling, tobacco, alcohol, adult entertainment, armaments and the extraction of thermal coal or the production of oil from tar sands. We have pre and post trade systems in place that allow us to manage portfolios within these defined parameters and we regularly review the stocks excluded for each factor.

The exclusionary policies described in this document apply to a range of Sarasin & Partners investment strategies. A summary matrix is included on page 14.

CLUSTER BOMBS AND LANDMINES

Prohibited under international treaties

The United Nations Convention on Cluster Munitions is an international treaty that prohibits the use of cluster bombs, a type of explosive weapon which scatters sub-munitions (“bomblets”) over an area. The convention was adopted in 2008.

The Ottawa Treaty (Anti-Personnel Mine Ban Convention) aims at eliminating anti-personnel landmines (AP-mines) around the world. To date, there are 162 States party to the treaty while 34 UN states including the United States, Russia and China are non-signatories.

EXTRACTION OF THERMAL COAL

FOSSIL FUEL EXTRACTION

Fossil fuels are carbon-rich deposits which are formed from geological processes acting on the remains of organic matter. The four fossil fuels are petroleum, natural gas, coal and Orimulsion.

In the presence of oxygen, fossil fuels can be burned to generate energy. A by-product of their combustion is carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>). The increasing volume of CO<sub>2</sub> in the earth's atmosphere is a major contributing factor to human-induced global warming. As of 2020, fossil fuels supplied 84% of the world's energy.

Aside from climate change, there are diverse externalities associated with fossil fuels. These include: damage to terrestrial and marine ecosystems; the production of hazardous waste; premature deaths among human populations from air pollution and employee safety issues.

GUIDANCE NOTES

All exclusions are monitored on a best endeavours basis.

Restricted stocks are coded into our pre-trade compliance system to prevent portfolio managers from buying them.

Each restriction is monitored and applied separately. It is not possible to apply a percentage threshold to revenues in respect of an amalgamation of ethical categories, as accurate data is not disclosed to allow meaningful analysis to take place.

We use external agencies for data provision.

The Sarasin & Partners Ethical Committee reviews the data and discusses all securities that the raw data suggests are excluded or close to exclusionary thresholds. The Ethical Committee investigates the data further as it deems appropriate and makes the final decision as to whether each security is restricted or permitted for investment.

The exclusions, criteria and thresholds set out in this document form part of a dynamic and flexible approach to ethical screening, and are therefore subject to change at any time without notice.

We review criteria at each quarterly meeting.
